SynForU™ – HerCare : Inside-out Wellness for HER

Abstract

Vulvovaginal Candidiasis (VVC) affects 75% of reproductive-age women, it is especially common during pregnancy due to higher estrogen levels and glycogen content in vaginal secretions. The latest clinical study conducted in pregnant subjects showed that SynForU™-HerCare, Lactobacilli probiotics reduce vulvovaginal symptoms, decrease emotional stress, reduce impairment of daily activities attributed to the infection, and improve defecation times. Let's explore how clinically validated probiotics can promote women's wellness inside – out.

Key Elements

- Women's unique health challenges
- The role of probiotics in improving intimate health
- What is found in clinical study in pregnant women
